Ford to resume F-150 production

Reprinted in part from: www.detroitnews.com
Nora Naughton, The Detroit News May 16, 2018

Ford Motor Co. expects its F-150 production will be in full swing again by Monday after a fire at a supplier plant brought production of the crucial truck to a standstill last week.

Ford will resume some F-150 production Friday at the Dearborn Truck Plant, with Kansas City expected to follow on Monday.

The Dearborn automaker shuttered its Kansas City plant quickly after the May 2 fire explosion and fire at Meridian Magnesium Products in Eaton Rapids. The Dearborn Truck Plant followed on May 9, stopping all F-150 and Super Duty production.

One of the three crews at Dearborn will return to work Friday, said Joe Hinrichs, Ford's president of global operations. The other two crews will start returning to work between Saturday and Monday. Kansas City employees are being called back to work Monday.

Super Duty production at the Kentucky Truck Plant, which has been halted since last week, will also resume Monday.
